About the Webinar

“The world will never be the same again.” This is perhaps the least hazardous prediction one can make about the consequence of the COVID-19 crisis. In the wake of this pandemic the higher education sector is also undergoing a tectonic shift. Being driven out of the campus, both faculty and students are grappling with the sudden new norm of completely tech-mediated teaching and learning. But in rural areas implementation of this mode of digital learning is a challenging one, as most of the learners come from the under privileged background. Consequently, they have to face disruption to their learning environment. At this juncture, this webinar seeks to explore how in post-COVID-19 period the teachers will cope with the daunting challenge of returning to their institution where there will be tremendous stress, anxiety, uncertainty, fear and a sense of isolation among the learners.
