About the Seminar:

Tarasankar Bandyopadhyay (1898–1971) was one of the most prominent Bengali novelists of the 20th century. He was born in a village called Labhpur in Birbhum district of Bengal, which greatly influenced his portrayal of rural life in his works. Bandyopadhyay's writing career spanned several decades, during which he produced a large body of work encompassing novels, short stories, and essays. The topic indicates a literary exploration of rural Bengal, particularly through the lens of Tarasankar, and suggests that this portrayal is not just a factual representation but is also infused with creativity and insight. It promises a deep and imaginative journey into the heart of village life in Bengal.
