Course Outcome

This add on course on Satinath Bhaduri's life and literature would immerse students in a deep study of his works against the backdrop of Indian independence and partition, offering a nuanced understanding of his contributions to Bengali literature. Participants would delve into Bhaduri's narrative styles, thematic explorations of nationalism and humanism, and his innovative literary techniques. Through comparative analyses and critical perspectives, students would appreciate Bhaduri's unique place in the literary canon and his influence on later writers. This course would also enhance research and analytical skills, with a focus on Bengali language mastery as reflected in Bhaduri's expressive and idiomatic use. Engaging with Bhaduri's literature, students would emerge with a critical awareness of its contemporary relevance and its reflections on modern social issues, equipped with a richer perspective on Indian literary history.
